This section is optional and can be used to provide a summary of recommendations to the IT manager regarding which controls and/or compliance best practices Botium Toys needs to implement, based on the risk posed if not implemented in a timely manner.

Recommendations (optional): In this section, provide recommendations, related to controls and/or compliance needs, that your IT manager could communicate to stakeholders to reduce risks to assets and improve Botium Toys' security posture.

Based on our findings, Botium Toys should strengthen several key security controls. First, they should tighten access management by putting least privilege principles and separation of duties in place. To better protect their data, they'll need to encrypt sensitive information and set up regular backups – this will help them recover quickly if they face a security breach or natural disaster. On the technical side, we recommend adding an IDS to spot potential attacks, upgrading their password policies, and creating a routine schedule for maintaining the legacy systems. These improvements will go a long way toward protecting the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of their sensitive information.

Moreover, Botium Toys needs to improve their managerial and operational controls to ensure compliance with regulations such as PCI DSS and GDPR. They should immediately limit who can access customer payment data, including PII and SPII to only authorized employees. We also suggest they start properly tracking and classifying their assets. This would not only improve their overall security posture but also provide better protection for their proprietary information and customer data.
